Officer and Committee Reports

1. Conservation Officer Report
  - a. New Requests: None.
  - b. Old Requests: None.
  - c. Updates:
    - 1) Cemeteries Updates:
      - i. The Conservation Commission conducted a site walk on June 13, 2016 for the possible cemetery near North Grosvenordale Pond. The site appears to have graves marked by rough field stones with no inscriptions. The Commission would like to organize a work crew to conduct a rough survey and clean up the area. Research of the area has yet to turn up any reference to a cemetery. The commission plans to contact the Thompson Historical Society to request that anyone with information on the possible cemetery share it with the Conservation Commission.
    - 2) Two updated maps have been added to the Conservation Commission website: Map of Conservation Easements and Map of Permanently Protected Land in Thompson.
    - 3) Carolyn Werge reviewed the deed for the Morning Beckons Farm, formerly known as the Doris Shaw Wildlife Sanctuary. The property is not protected with a conservation easement but it does contain covenants enforceable by the grantor and her heirs.
    - 4) Bernie Davis moved and Ron Tillen seconded the motion to send to the Connecticut Land Conservation Council for the annual membership. All in favor; the motion carried.
